DETAILED ACTION

Claims 5-9 are pending, claims 1-4 are cancelled.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

1. Claims 5, 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kelly US 1 164 527.

Regarding claim 5, Kelly teaches a sink comprising: a basin (C) having a bottom with an opening, a separation vessel communicating with the opening, a water storage vessel (H) forming a u-shaped passage as a whole together with the separation vessel, a draining means (K), and an open/close means (D3) provided at the side of the separation vessel (fig. 1). How the apparatus functions is a process limitation that does not add structural limitations to the claim.

Regarding claim 7, Kelly further teaches the separation vessel and the water storage vessel are adjacent each other with a common partition member (F) forming the u-shaped passage, and the draining means (K) has a structure with an inlet formed at a position of the predetermined fluid level on a circumferential side wall of the water storage vessel and a pipe shaped member formed out so as to connect the inlet and outside of the water storage vessel (fig. 1).

Regarding claim 8, Kelly further teaches the separation vessel and the water storage vessel are adjacent each other with a common partition member (F) forming the u-shaped passage, and the draining means (K) has a structure with an inlet formed at a position of the predetermined fluid level within the water storage vessel and a pipe shaped member formed out so as to connect the inlet and outside of the water storage vessel (fig. 1).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kelly '527 in view of Maranville US 911 314.

Regarding claim 6, Kelly teaches the sink of claim 5 but does not teach a buffer vessel. Maranville teaches a sink comprising: a separation vessel (2), a water storage vessel (3) forming a u-shaped passage together with the separation vessel, a draining means (9), and a buffer vessel (formed by element (10)). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the buffer vessel as taught by Maranville because the buffer vessel maintains a constant head of water in the water storage vessel that is independent of the rate of flow through the outlet thereby preventing accidental escape of water through the oil discharge (pg. 2 lines 27-44).

Neither Kelly nor Maranville teach a buffer vessel formed between the separation vessel and the water storage vessel. Placing the buffer vessel between the separation vessel and water storage vessel is merely a rearrangement of the buffer vessel and the outlet that would not affect the operation of the apparatus and would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art. Shifting the position of an element is unpatentable if shifting the position of the element would not modify the operation of the device, In re Japikse, 86 USPQ 70 (1950).

3. Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kelly '527 in view of Broughton US 4 396 508 or Hirshstein US 2 284 737.

Kelly teaches the sink of claim 5 but does not teach a second open-close means provided in a side of the separation vessel. Broughton and Hirshstein both teach oil-water separators having open/close means (Broughton (28) fig. 1, Hirshstein (29) fig. 1) provided in the side of the vessel for depleting sedimentary garbage in the vessel at a position below a predetermined water level. The claim would have been obvious because the technique for improving a particular class of devices was part of the ordinary capabilities of a person of ordinary skill in the art, in view of the teaching of the technique for improvement in other situations, KSR International Co. v. Teleflex Inc., 82 USPQ2d 1385 (2007).

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments have been addressed in the body of the rejection above.

Conclusion

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP

§ 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
